Change In Sheriff's Force.

J. I. will be recalled that the Grant jury recommended to the Chester county delegation that the county policeman be re-elected in Chester county. The delegation has had the recommendation under advisement and yesterday had a meeting at which time they decided to give the sheriff of the county three deputies, all to be under supervision and to be appointed by him. As a result of this decision on the part of the delegation Sheriff Howe has appointed Mr. Gladden Dye as deputy. Mr. Dye will have headquarters at Great Falls and will be in the most of his time in and around that point. However, he will also be called and will assist the other officers in any part of the county.

The delegation, after giving the matter close study, was of the opinion that the law-enforcement officers should all be under the jurisdiction of the Sheriff, who is charged with enforcing the law in the county.

The officers are requested by the delegation to speed as much as possible in making the rural districts of the county. They will receive $125 a month and will pay their own expenses in the operation of care, etc.

The delegation reserves the right to rescind the order issued should be wait but a very small and have only a few bolts to a stalk. The people are giving a good battle, and are not far from starving to death. A good Jersey cow can be bought for $55—Rock Hill Record.

Texas Cows Burning Up. Rev. Walter Simpson, of Cordonia, Tex., who is visiting his brother, Neil Simpson, in talking with a representative of The Record, stated that everything was burning up there, and that the people will make generally no living this year. Rev. Mr. Simpson lives in the midst of the great cotton belt. The cotton that should be waiting for a very small and have only a few bolts to a stalk. The people are giving a good battle, and are not far from starving to death. A good Jersey cow can be bought for $55—Rock Hill Record.

Escaped Prisoners Caught. Three of the four negro prisoners, who escaped from the Chester county jail last week, were captured at Monroe, North Carolina. Sam Johnson, who is charged with shooting another negro at Fort Law, is still at large.

100 Attend Colvin Reunion. Raton, La., Aug. 27.—The Colvin family is holding its annual reunion at Unionville, N. C., about 100 miles north of Boston, with dinner on the ground and Congressman Riley J. Wilson, of this district, held the principal position. There are approximately 500 members of this pioneer Lincoln parish family, most of them residing in Lincoln and adjoining parishes, and the reunion is expected to be participated in by nearly all of them.

About 80 years ago, John and his wife, and a sister migrated from Chester, S. C., to north-Louisiana and settled in old Vienna and Unionville, a few miles apart, from that nucleus grew the present Colvin family, which is among the foremost in this part of the state.

Different members of the family prepare the program each year. "Uncle Pete" Colvin of Boston is a prime mover in the preparations, and abundant entertainment is assured all who attend.

The Colvins landed in America in 1730, settling at Shenandoah Valley, Va. John Colvin and his wife, Ann Price, came to Chester in 1751 and settled on Broad and Sandy River.

Jury Puts Value On Land. The following dispatch is from York: After inspecting the land and hearing considerable testimony as to its value, the jury in the condemnation proceedings of the Water Power Company, against W. Boyd, involving the purchase of 38 acres of land and the payment of the crop destroyed, placed a valuation on the land of $1,000 and on the crop of $700. It is understood that Mr. Boyd will appeal from the decision of the jury, impelled by T. E. McAdams, clerk of the court, who presided over the trial in the capacity of referee, to the circuit court.

Two-thirds of the land involved is one bottom ground along the Catawba River. Estimates of its value varied widely, some of the Water Power Company's witnesses thinking it worth $75 an acre and some of Mr. Boyd's witnesses valuing it at $1,000 an acre. The land will be under water as the result of the building of the new dam at the mouth of the river. Several other similar cases are pending.

Further Curtailment Ordered. The Southern Power Company, through the Charlotte office, has ordered further curtailment of the use of power by the thermoelectric mills throughout this section, beginning next week.

The further curtailment will amount to two days each week dead of one as ordered last week. This action has been necessitated by the fact that the company with reference to the water in Catawba river and other rivers that supply power for generating electricity.

About 300 mills depend on the Southern Power Company for their power and the stopping of the power will mean the stopping of the spindles in the Carolina.

The power company also says that all cotton gins operated by power supplied by the company be closed down on Wednesday and Thursday of each week until the curtailment program is lifted.

COLUMBIAN ASKS DAMAGES FOR WRECK AT FORT MILL

Suit for recovery of damages to the sum of $10,000 for injuries received when the automobile of the complainant, overtaken on the outskirts of Fort Mill June 2, 1925, has been instituted by Richard J. Pomeroy, of Columbia, against T. B. Spratt, of Fort Mill. It was learned here today.

The complaint charges the defendant with driving on the wrong side of the road and with negligence. Mr. Pomeroy declares he suffered several broken ribs, a laceration on the forehead, arms and legs, and suffered much "bodily and mental anguish."

Mr. Pomeroy is well known in Columbia having several times been an aspirant for the office of city commissioner. Mr. Spratt is prominent in York county and is a member of the York county highway commission.

SET STAGE IN THIS OPEN

French Theaters Let Audience See All That's Going On

Changing the sets in all French revues seems to be the principle that the audience goes to know everything that goes on, so that they will respect no trickery. When it comes time to shift to the next scene, the lights are lowered to allow a visibility equal to that at 7 o'clock in the evening of a clear summer's day. You see the stage hands crashing over the set, the sets and drops are raised and lowered with utter frankness. Then, when everything is ready (in about five minutes after the close of the preceding number), the stage manager, clad in a long duster and a straw hat, walks on and formally inspects the set. When he is satisfied, he shakes hands with the assistant stage manager and the rest of the national society's anniversary in some way.
